

Back Row: Purkiss, Anderson, Edmonds, Meyberg, Shattuck, Combs, Cooper. Front Row: Syer, Kachlein, Devlin.

VARSIITY GOLF

THAT the popularity of golf is rapidly increasing on the Stanford campus despite the lack of proper playing facilities is evidenced by the fact that eighty men entered the Fall Intramural Tournament and that thirty-three Stanford men journeyed to Del Monte where they made up over half the field in the California Intercollegiate Championships. Seven Cardinals qualified in the championship flight, and of these Captain Eddie Meyberg, the defending champion, and Larry Staley won their way to the semi-finals. Staley lost to Gibson Dunlop, the eventual winner, in a very close match, while Meyberg was defeated in this round by Allen Moser only after they had played five extra holes. Warner Edmonds and Budge Carlsmith, of Stanford, won the second and third flights respectively.

The interest in team play for golf was greatly stimulated during the past year by the inauguration for college golf teams of two new tournaments, the Minor Sports Carnival, in which six-man teams from each institution engage in best ball four ball matches, and the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Championship.

In the Minor Sports Carnival, both Stanford and California scored the same number of points in their matches with U. S. C. and U. C. L. A., but in the final match between the two, the Bears won by one point. Meyberg and Devlin, playing as the Stanford first team, were the stars of the tournament, making eight and a half of the Cardinals' seventeen points.

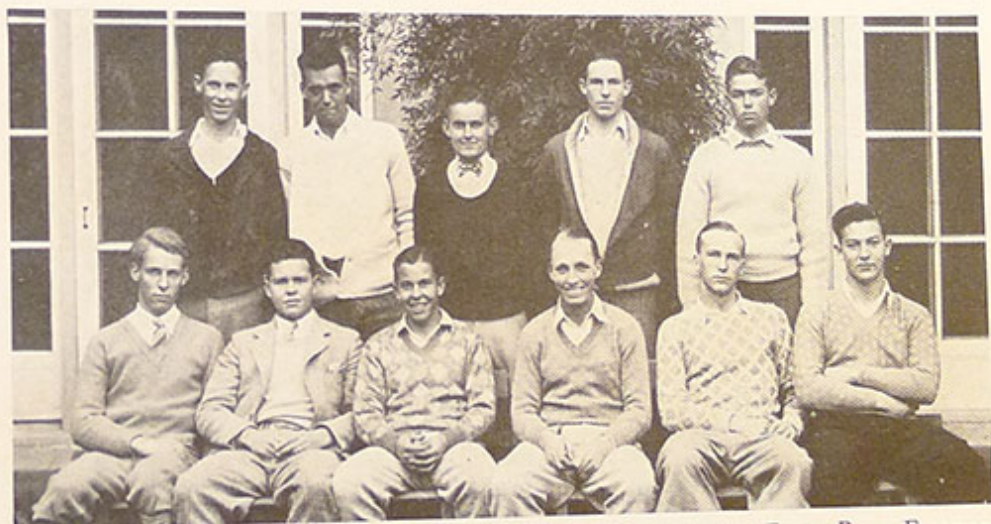

The Redshirts had their revenge the following week when they won their annual match with the Bears by a score of $17\frac{1}{2}$ to $9\frac{1}{2}$. The morning singles matches were all closely contested, but, led by Captain Meyberg who won three points, the Stanford men battled their way to a tie. The doubles matches of the afternoon completely upset the dope, which favored the Bears because of their recent victory. Playing wonderful golf, the Stanford contingent captured eight and a half of the nine possible points, and repeated their victory of last year over California.

The first annual Intercollegiate Championship, held at the Lakeside Country Club in San Francisco, concluded the season. After trailing the California team for thirty-six holes, Captain Meyberg and Leo Devlin stepped out in the last round. By playing the last nine holes in two under par, Meyberg won the championship for Stanford, and captured second low gross for himself.

Each of the following was awarded a circle "S" for winning points against California: Captain Edwin Meyberg, Robert Syer, Ward Edmonds, Herbert Fleishhacker Jr., Leo Devlin, and Eldredge Combs.

FRESHMAN GOLF

WHILE there are no golfers on this year's squad who are outstanding when compared with their colleagues, Captain Homer Burnaby, Bob Lewis, Warner Edmonds, Ken White, Dick Stevenson, and Warren Johnson form the best freshman golf team that has ever represented Stanford. All are able to shoot in the seventies fairly consistently, which is good golf for any college squad.

Back Row: Edmonds, White, Anderson, Allen; Stevenson. Front Row: Freeman, Lewis, Johnson, Sutphen, Brink, Burnaby.

After making good showings in the Fall Quarter Intramural Tournament, several of the members sprang into prominence in the California Intercollegiate Tournament at Del Monte. Ken White and Warner Edmonds turned in the best performances there.

The only outside competition which the Freshmen had as a team was with the California Freshmen, who were snowed under by a score of $24\frac{1}{2}$ to $21\frac{1}{2}$. Only the first two men on the California squad could give the Cardinals any competition. The remainder of the matches were easy for the Stanford men. The results were as follows: Singles—Captain Burnaby (S) 3, Lindner (C) 0; Lewis (S) 2, Potter (C) 1; Stevenson (S) 3, McCarthy (C) 0; Johnson (S) 3, Wilde (C) 0; Edmonds (S) 3, Miller (C) 0; White (S) 3, Mulks (C) 0. Doubles: Burnaby and Lewis (S) $1\frac{1}{2}$, Lindner and Potter (C) $1\frac{1}{2}$; Stevenson and Johnson (S) 3, McCarthy and Wilde (C) 0; Edmonds and White (S) 3, Miller and Mulks (C) 0.