GOLF

FROM a standpoint of scores and results, Stanford's golf team enjoyed the most successful season of all the squads in the minor sports division. The Cardinal golfers, coached by Charles Davis, won every one of their five matches, three of them by decisive scores.

The season was started in October with a 14½ victory over the strong U. C. L. A. squad on the Los Altos Country Club course. Captain Ward Edmonds, Larry Staley, Warner Edmonds and Bob Syer placed in the order named. A meet with St. Ignatius over the same course in January resulted in a 9-0 victory, with Warner Edmonds and George Kachlein each shooting "best ball" of 67.

The Cardinals next met and defeated teams from the Los Altos Country Club and the San Jose Country Club over their own courses. Stanford won the Los Altos meet, 10½ to 4½, and the San Jose contest, 9-6.

The season was climaxed in March with a 17-10 victory over California at the Lake side course in San Francisco. In the team matches Captain Edmonds and Kachlein turned in low scores of 70 and 75. The teams were composed of the Edmonds brothers, Warren Johnson and Richard Stevenson, George Kachlein and William Scott. In the singles three men shot 79 and three lowered that mark by one point.

The Cardinal frosh squad defeated the California cubs 24-3 in their only contest of the season. The tourney took place at the Lakeside Course and was featured by the stellar playing of Stanford's first year stars, Eichelberger, Macbeth, Thompson, Coffin, Slocum and Stevens.

FRESHMAN GOLF

WHILE there are no golfers on this year's squad who are outstanding when compared with their colleagues, Captain Homer Burnaby, Bob Lewis, Warner Edmonds, Ken White, Dick Stevenson, and Warren Johnson form the best freshman golf team that has ever represented Stanford. All are able to shoot in the seventies fairly consistently, which is good golf for any college squad.

After making good showings in the Fall Quarter Intramural Tournament, several of the members sprang into prominence in the California Intercollegiate Tournament at Del Monte. Ken White and Warner Edmonds turned in the best performances there.

The only outside competition which the Freshmen had as a team was with the California Freshmen, who were snowed under by a score of $24\frac{1}{2}$ to $21\frac{1}{2}$. Only the first two men on the California squad could give the Cardinals any competition. The remainder of the matches were easy for the Stanford men. The results were as follows: Singles—Captain Burnaby (S) 3, Lindner (C) 0; Lewis (S) 2, Potter (C) 1; Stevenson (S) 3, McCarthy (C) 0; Johnson (S) 3, Wilde (C) 0; Edmonds (S) 3, Miller (C) 0; White (S) 3, Mulks (C) 0. Doubles: Burnaby and Lewis (S) $1\frac{1}{2}$, Lindner and Potter (C) $1\frac{1}{2}$; Stevenson and Johnson (S) 3, McCarthy and Wilde (C) 0; Edmonds and White (S) 3, Miller and Mulks (C) 0.
