GOLF

The Stanford golf team, under the able direction of Coach Eddie Twiggs, looked forward to another fine season. Several members of the 1947 team, which placed third in the National Intercollegiate Matches, including Lambie, Rosberg, Kellberg, and Schuler, returned; and the addition of two sophomores rounded out the team. The golfers won second-place honors at the N.C.I.G.T. over a rain-swept Pasatiempo course at Santa Cruz, finishing only two strokes behind San Jose State. They downed the alumni team on the Stanford course, where the Cards will be host to the N.C.A.A. golf championships late in June.

The 1948 golf team is the last of fourteen consistently fine teams to be coached by Eddie Twiggs. Mr. Twiggs, shown above with 1948 Captain Tom Lambie, has turned out eight P.C.C. and five N.C.A.A. championship teams. Eddie retired at the end of the season, and it goes without saying that Stanford will miss him.
